Nevada Co. Consolidation at Standstill

An effort to consolidate four small Nevada County schools has struck high center and won't come off until some group takes action, either interested citizens or possibly the Arkansas Legislature.

The schools involved are Bodcaw with 73 students; Laneburg with about 100, Willisville with around 75 and Cale with about 103.

A consolidation move started at the suggestion of Willisville. So petitions were circulated. Only six persons refused to sign in the Bodcaw district. The other districts also had majorities. Then unexpectedly Willisville announced it was abandoning the consolidation plan and petitioned to join Waldo district but this, too, failed.

An educational survey commission strongly recommended that the schools consolidate or annex with larger schools in the area. Over 100 districts in Arkansas have been advised to consolidate or join larger districts. However, boards of three of the districts in Nevada County have voted to completely abandon the consolidation proposal and each will continue as always for the present.

"The handwriting is on the wall," says Tom J. Silvey who resigned this year as head of the Bodcaw school system. "People need to wake up while they have a choice. They can act now or the Legislature will do it for them eventually. Some bills are likely to be offered in the next session to force the 100 or so small schools to go elsewhere," he said.

He significantly cited the fact that not a single National Merit Scholarship was awarded to any student in a school with less than 250 students. Small districts simply can't give students the courses that larger schools offer, particularly in the field of science and mathematics, he emphasized. As a result the small school student is severely handicapped at college. Some parents have recognized this and send their students into larger schools, many of them to Hope. However, many still seem satisfied with their child's limited education.

Mr. Silvey feels that a majority of the residents of all the Nevada County Districts would go for the consolidation if they had a chance to vote secretly. He blamed the few in control in each community for failure of the proposal.

But the people of the district can act now. It requires only 10 per cent of the electors by petition to force the board to call a special district election. Thus they would get a chance to vote secretly, and more important, they would have a choice, Mr. Silvey said. However, this won't come about unless some group forces the action. Otherwise, sooner or later the State Legislature will force the smaller schools out of existence and they probably won't have any choice when that comes about, the long-time Bodcaw School Superintendent said.

Tshombe Has Backing of Common Front

By ROBIN MANNOCK

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Moise Tshombe announced today he has won the backing of a "common front" formed from fragments of the late Premier Patrice Lumumba's party.

A communique signed jointly by the onetime secessionist president of Katanga and Lumumba's leader Antoine Kiwewa said the two had agreed to collaborate to "bring about a sincere reconciliation of all the Congo's sons."

Many felt the accord between Tshombe and his former sworn enemies would make it virtually certain that the Katanga leader would be able to form a government. Lumumba was slain in Katanga in 1961 and some Africans have blamed Tshombe for his death.

Tshombe was entrusted with consulting political leaders on the possibility of forming a government after Prime Minister Cyrille Adoula resigned Tuesday, the Congo's fourth independence day.

Before Tshombe can attempt to form a Cabinet, however, he must be named premier-designate by Kasavubu.

Tshombe and Kiwewa agreed to work for the release of imprisoned separatist leader Antoine Gizenga and the return of all exiles. They also agreed to conduct a pacification campaign in the Katanga provinces.

Dirksen Agrees to Nominate Barry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said today he has agreed to nominate Sen. Barry Goldwater for the Republican presidential nomination at the party's convention opening July 13 in San Francisco.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, told a reporter he had advised Goldwater some time ago that he would give "serious and substantial consideration" to any such request.

"The request has been made, and I have agreed to do it," he said.

Dirksen is a delegate from Illinois. He supported Goldwater at a caucus of that group in Chicago Tuesday. A poll showed 48 of the 58 Illinois delegates favored Goldwater.

In saying he would put Goldwater's name before the convention for the presidency, Dirksen confirmed a report published today by the New York Herald Tribune.

In Many Ways July 4 Holiday Still Unsafe If Not Insane As Americans Celebrate

By HAL BOYLE

NEH YORK (AP) — America announced its independence 138 years ago Saturday.

Ever since then it has sought to celebrate a safe and sane Fourth of July, but in many ways the holiday remains unsafe if not insane.

Fireworks now are banned in most states, except under controlled conditions, but the auto isn't. And the auto now takes about as many lives over the holiday weekend as fireworks did at the turn of the century. Deaths ran into the hundreds then; they still do.

Perhaps not one in a thousand Americans sits down and reads again Thomas Jefferson's basic statement of our human rights to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Behind our celebrations, wise or unwise, is the idea of freedom. But what is freedom? It might be worth a few moments on our most national of holidays to ponder what some of the great minds of the past have had to say on this subject.

"No one is free save Joe," — Aeschylus.

"No man is wholly free. He is a slave to wealth, or to for-

Americans Go to Highways for July 4th

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Millions of Americans took to the highways today, bent on a leisurely observance of the long Independence Day weekend away from home.

The weather was not ideal for highway travel in about one-half of the country because there was a threat of scattered showers.

The National Safety Council estimated that more than 83 million motor vehicles will travel 8.4 billion miles during the three-day observance of the holiday. This is 300 million miles over the total travel during a nonholiday period of the same length.

Between 450 and 550 persons may lose their lives in traffic accidents during the period that started at 6 p.m. local time and will end at midnight Sunday, the council estimated.

The Associated Press made a survey during a recent three-day nonholiday period to establish a basis for comparison with the present holiday. There were 420 traffic deaths during the nonholiday weekend, 16 in boating mishaps and 104 by drowning.

The record traffic toll for a three-day observance of Independence Day is 442, set in 1940.

Traffic deaths have averaged about 143 a day during the first five months this year, including deaths that occurred days or weeks after the accidents. The holiday tabulation includes deaths only during the holiday period.

Arkla Discovers New Gas Field

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Tests on a wildcat well indicate a natural gas discovery of major proportions in the Arkoma Basin of Western Arkansas and Eastern Oklahoma, the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. said Tuesday.

W. R. Stephens, Arkla president, said the well, Harley Bledsoe No. 1 in LeFlore County, Okla., had tested for an open flow of 4.5 million cubic feet of gas per day.

He said the well is perforated from 6,337 feet to 6,501 feet in the Simpson zone. It represents the first commercial production from that zone in the Arkoma basin.

Perforations between 6,160 and 6,170 feet in the basin tested an estimated 36 million cubic feet per day on an open flow.

Arkla owns 25 per cent interest in the well through a subsidiary. Stephens said three tests will be drilled in an area next to the discovery well.

LBJ Plans to Hit GOP With His Record

World Today
By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — While Republicans scramble around, seeking issues and tormenting themselves in their fight over a nominee, President Johnson is quietly building a record to wrap around their necks.

He isn't saying much about it now and probably won't say a word until after the Democratic convention nominates him late in August and the presidential campaign begins.

Then, when the Republicans begin heckling him with charges of inadequacies and deficiencies he can hit them with his record. By then it should be very good, at least on domestic legislation and his success with Congress.

The latest part of the record was added Thursday night as he signed the new civil rights law, the strongest in almost a century.

The Republicans, as he said, voted for it overwhelmingly, too. But the passage of this strong measure is one more example of how Congress has responded to his requests to give him what he wants as he wants it.

The biggest previous example was the $11.5-billion tax-cut bill passed earlier this year. It was the biggest tax cut in history. There have been some other examples.

And there are more to come. Since he has no opposition for the Democratic nomination he can spend his time working in the presidency and on Congress until next month's convention in Atlantic City.

This is an advantage the Republican nominee can't enjoy, whoever he turns out to be. He won't have a White House record to point to and he and his party will have to think up fault to find as they go along.

And at this moment the Republicans themselves do not seem to know whether their party will be split wide open by their very act of picking a candidate to put up against Johnson. They meet July 13 in San Francisco.

In person or on the telephone, Johnson, who was in Congress 23 years himself, is a master at twisting the arms and bending the ears of the members of House and Senate to get what he wants. Those around him say he never stops.

What he wants is the maximum legislation, which will require Congress to come back after the Republican convention and work perhaps right up to the time the Democratic convention starts.

He isn't always successful in getting what he wants.

For instance, his program of medical care for the aged looks just as doomed this year as it did all through President Kennedy's administration. Johnson can't even get it out of the House Ways and Means Committee to a floor vote.

The chairman, Rep. Wilbur Mills, Arkansas Democrat, is blocking Johnson on this just as he did Kennedy.

The President's most colorful success so far, perhaps his most impressive one, has been the foreign aid program which for years has always been cut far below the figure the President asked. Johnson asked $3.5 billion.

Integration Tests Follow Law Signing

By TOM CHASE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The new civil rights law was tested immediately in several areas where racial demonstrations flared in the past, but pockets of resistance still remained in some sections of the nation.

The initial testing occurred shortly after President Johnson signed the historic bill Thursday night in Washington.

Civil rights leaders promptly announced plans for additional, more extensive testing of the public accommodations section of the law, particularly in the South.

However, a number of persons objected to the law. Lester Maddox, operator of a segregated restaurant in Atlanta, said he would go to jail before he would serve Negro customers.

In Mississippi, Gov. Paul Johnson said he expected some real trouble there when Negroes seek to desegregate public accommodations.

The first test came in Kansas City a minute after the controversial bill became law. The test failed but apparently laid the groundwork for compliance.

A Negro, Gene Young, 13, of Jackson, Miss., tried without success to obtain a haircut in the basement barbershop at the Muehlebach Hotel where the Congress of Racial Equality was holding its national convention.

Members of CORE immediately staged a sit-in at the barbershop and in the hotel lobby until the barbershop closed at its regular time.

The hotel, the largest in Kansas City, is integrated except for the barbershop, said Val Coleman, CORE public relations representative.

Later, Gus Imbeau, the head barber, said he was informed the hotel management had agreed to try to obtain barbers who were willing to cut the hair of Negro customers.

At Albany, Ga., a spokesman for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee said integrated groups were served for the first time in seven establishments. No incidents were reported.

The south Georgia city was the scene of numerous racial demonstrations and hundreds of arrests the past several years.

Southern chapters of CORE were sent a step-by-step program for testing the public accommodations section. It was signed by Richard Haley, CORE regional director in New Orleans.

"Be ready to make a start—even though a modest one—by July 4th," the instructions said, and then listed rules for testing procedure.

In St. Augustine, Fla., a spokesman for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said tests would not be made there until at least the middle of next week, while a truce is in effect. Then businessmen will be asked to comply, he said. If they don't, he said lawsuits will be started.

J. B. Stoner of Atlanta, an attorney for the Ku Klux Klan, said that North Florida klansmen would march in St. Augustine Saturday afternoon.

Civil Rights
The civil rights bill, now the law of the land, is put to immediate tests; in signing the measure, President Johnson appeals to Americans to "bring justice and hope to all our people."

The new civil rights law is tested successfully in several cities where racial demonstrations flared in the past. Integration groups plan more tests but some southerners remain defiant.

The National Congress of Racial Equality, convening at almost the same time that civil rights bill is signed into law, hears a consensus of its leaders that the bill is "no magic carpet that's going to take us to the promised land."

Sen. Barry Goldwater fears the presidential campaign could build into a civil rights explosion — perhaps triggered by fringe elements in his own following.

Two Banks Merge in Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — One of the state's oldest and one of its newest banks announced plans for merger Tuesday, and they put the proposal before the state Banking Commission.

Worthen Bank & Trust Co., founded in 1877, and the Bank of Arkansas, started in southwest Little Rock about nine years ago would make a combined institution with assets of $110 million.

The directors of both banks have approved the merger and approval of the state banking commissioner and the Federal Reserve Bank is necessary.

Statements of conditions as of April 15 showed Worthen had total resources of $105,436,265 and the Bank of Arkansas had resources of $6,702,115.

Safety Supervisors

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Council of Safety Supervisors will provide seven courtesy vehicles to patrol state highways during daylight hours of the July 4th holiday. The units will be marked "Courtesy Emergency Patrol" and will be equipped with two-radio radios. Drivers will be provided by Arkansas firms with truck fleets.

SW Bell Has a New Wire Chief Here

William B. O'Neal

William B. O'Neal of Hot Springs has been promoted to wire chief at Hope for Southwestern Bell-Arkansas, succeeding F. D. Gray who was named chief switchman at Hot Springs.

The announcement of O'Neal's appointment was made by Hot Springs District Plant Superintendent John R. Koonce.

O'Neal's duties here will include supervision of all inside and outside telephone plant maintenance and of all telephone repair and installation work in Hope, Nashville, and Ashdown.

O'Neal began his telephone company career in Jonesboro in 1947 and has had other assignments in Walnut Ridge and Hot Springs. He was a repeaterman at the latter city for the past five years before coming to Hope.

O'Neal is 38 years old, married, and has two daughters and a son. He and his family attend the Methodist Church.

Although O'Neal is already on the job in Hope, his family is still in Hot Springs and will move to Hope as soon as suitable housing arrangements are made.

Confirmation of Gen. Taylor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate confirmed by voice vote today President Johnson's nomination of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor to be ambassador to South Viet Nam.

The Senate also confirmed the nomination of U. Alexis Johnson to the top-ranking foreign career status of career ambassador.

Johnson, who previously held the rank of career minister, is already on duty in Saigon as deputy ambassador under Taylor.

Even as the President spoke, Gov. Johnson was suggesting that Mississippi operators of public accommodations should defy the law so its constitutionality can be tested.

Asked at a news conference whether he thought restaurant and hotel owners and the like should comply with the new law, the governor said: "I don't think they should. I think it should be tested in the courts. A great many people feel it is unconstitutional."

In other parts of the South, however, businessmen and community leaders expressed a willingness to go along with the new law, even if they don't like it.

A reminder that practically everything in the City will be closed Saturday in observance of July 4. This includes the Star which will resume publication on Monday, July 6.

Mrs. Altoona Cox, 67, is the oldest member of the Hope Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, will attend the District Assembly of the group now in progress at Texarkana Junior College. Some 4,000 Witnesses from 19 states are expected to be present during the session.

The Little League baseball games rained out June 16, will be made up Monday, July 6, says Wesley Huddleston. The three games will be played in the same order.

He also said Donoho was fatally shot by two guards, rather than three as was originally reported.

Donoho, of Little Rock, was shot as he hid in bushes at the Pulaski County Penal Farm, where he was serving a 718-day sentence for driving under the influence of alcohol, petit larceny and passing bad checks.

UNEASY LIES THE DEAD

By M. E. Chabot

There was a knock on the front door. Rako looked startled for a minute, then his face smoothed out. The knock was repeated.

"I was supposed to get a liquor delivery today," he said. He looked at me questioning. "Go ahead," I said. "Get it straight, Rako. I'm not here to threaten you. I'm here to try to save your life."

He brought his hands into sight and walked out from behind the bar. He looked at me for a minute, then walked heavily into the dining room toward the front door.

The minute I saw Rako's face I knew I'd made a mistake, but it was too late. Nick Potti was right behind him with a gun in his hand.

"Relax, March," he said. He finally looked happy. "I guess you thought that was a pretty smart trick, trading cars with that clown in the bar."

Rako had started to go behind the bar.

"Uh-huh," Nick said, prodding him with the gun. "That's where you were when you shot Jerry. Maybe you got another gun there. Get over to the wall. You, too, March."

I slid off the stool and backed over to the wall. Rako was beside me. His face was pale. I guess that he finally realized I'd been right.

"Both of you turn around and put your hands up on the wall. Lean your weight on Nick."

We both obeyed. Nick Potti came over and took my gun. He patted my coat and pants pockets, then turned his attention to Rako. When he'd finished, he went back across the room.

"All right," he said. "You can both go over and sit on the bar stools. But move nice and easy so I don't get nervous."

"I didn't get a chance to tell you that I was glad to see you, Nick," Rako said. He was going to make a last pathetic try, but it was too obvious. "This fellow was just going to take me in to the cops."

"Sure," Nick said soothingly. "We wouldn't want that to happen, would we, Tom Boy?"

"That's right, Nick," he said eagerly.

"I guess you're still feeling big," Nick said. "You killed Jerry Dell and he was a hard man to kill."

"I noticed you talk a little tougher when you're holding a gun," Rako said.

"Shut up," he said. "I've got some talking to go, Tom boy. Johnny says you have things that belong to him. He wants them."

Rako was silent for a minute, then his lips moved stiffly. "The gun is in a safe-deposit box in a bank and you can't get that. My lawyer has my will, which says that the box is to be turned over to the cops if anything happens to me."

"I have a couple of ideas about that, too. I can put March on ice and you can get the gun or the three of us can stay here like three pals and your wife can go get the gun. Only she has to understand that if she makes a false move you're out like a light."

Rako's voice was a mere croak when he answered. "There's an intercom back of the bar I'll call her."

"Don't be in a hurry, Tom boy. First let's see if there's a gun back there." He dropped my gun in his pocket and moved around behind the bar. "Yeah, there it is. I'm glad you didn't disappoint me, Tom boy. I remembered that you were always careful enough to have a spare gun somewhere around."

When he'd gone behind the bar I'd reached down and taken the derringer from his holster. I held it beside my leg and swung around on the stool. I thought Rako saw me take it out, but he didn't let on. "Want a drink, Milo?" he asked.

"Sure," I said. "I never turn down a free drink."

Nick put Rako's gun in his other pocket and picked up a glass with his left hand.

"Since it's free it won't make much difference what it is," he splashed whiskey into the glass and put the bottle down. He got two more glasses and poured liquid into them.

I was waiting for him when he came into full view. I had the derringer steadied on my knee and there was just enough time to make it a good shot. I hit him right in the kneecap. He went down, screaming with pain, his own gun falling from his hand. He rolled around on the floor, and then reached for the gun. I shot again, putting a bullet through his hand. He screamed again and faintly.

I walked over and took the three guns. I looked up at Rako. "Where do you stand now?" I asked.

"I'll go with you," he said. There was no expression on his face.

XXXVI

We drove to the state police barracks. Nick Potti was still unconscious when we got there. We left him in the back of the car and went in. The same Sergeant was on duty.

He gave me a sour glance but picked up the phone. "That man March is back again," he said. "There's another guy with him." He listened a minute and then hung up. "You can go in."

"Thank you Sergeant. Oh, by the way, I have a car parked outside. There's a man in the back seat who's badly wounded. Take care of him. Then you can book him for attempted murder. And I shot him—if you're curious about that."

I didn't wait for an answer. The Lieutenant looked up. "What is it now, March?"

"Not much, I said. 'Do you know this man with me? His gaze shifted to Rako. 'Certainly. He's Thomas Blake. He's the one who killed a hold-up man yesterday.'"

"His real name, I said, 'is Thomas Rako. He disappeared from Washington seven years ago after pleading the Fifth a good 100 times before a Congressional hearing. The man he shot yesterday was a professional gunman sent here to kill him. There's another one outside in my car who tried the same thing today. I shot that one, but he's still alive.'"

The Lieutenant's face was a pale purple. "I suppose you shot him with that gun you have a permit for?"

"Not the one you know about. I shot him with a derringer that's been adapted to use a .32 shell. I have a permit for it, too. In the meantime, Mr. Rako has some things he'd like to tell you, and I assure you that Washington will be interested; much more than in what kind of gun I used. You're likely to end up being a big man, Lieutenant."

"I could arrest you, he said angrily.

"You could also start looking like a monkey when the newspapers started checking into it. Rako has been here right under your nose for seven years."

"Are you trying to blackmail me into letting you go?"

"I wouldn't try to blackmail you into giving me the time of day. I'm just trying to keep you from being a bigger fool than nature made you. Incidentally, I added, reaching into my pockets, 'here's the gun Nick Potti was carrying, here's a spare gun that Rako had, and here's the gun I shot Potti with. I want

Spahn Chased As Cardinals Beat Braves

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Where Has Warren's Wonder gone?

For the ninth consecutive time Warren (The Wonder) Spahn, Milwaukee's 43-year-old pitching marvel, trudged from the mound Thursday after failing to finish what he started as the Braves lost to St. Louis 4-3.

So, within hours, Milwaukee fans were forced to wonder whether the Braves were ready to hit the road and whether Spahn had reached the end of it.

First came still another report that the Braves would be playing in Atlanta next year. And then Spahn went out to the mound against the Cardinals, looking for his first victory in a month and his first complete game since May 19.

Instead, the winningest left-hander in major league history was knocked out in the seventh inning and tagged with his third straight loss. He now is bogged down with a 5-8 record and a staggering 4.89 earned run average.

But what was most indicative of Spahn's problems was his continuing failure to register a complete game. The 13-time, 20-game winner, whose career record stands at 355 victories and 224 losses, holds a major league record for complete games, having led the National League in that department nine times.

While Spahn's ineffectiveness continued to plague the Braves, the first-place San Francisco Giants suffered a temporary setback when Willie Mays was sidelined in the first inning against Pittsburgh because of an upset stomach.

With Willie absent, Orlando Cepeda took command, slugged a two-run homer and launched a five-run sixth inning rally that beat the Pirates 6-5. The victory kept the Giants 1½ games in front of the Philadelphia Phillies, who edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati defeated the Chicago Cubs 7-0 behind Jim Maloney's four-hit pitching and Houston made the most of five New York errors for a 7-1 victory over the Mets.

In the American League, the Los Angeles Angels knocked off first-place Baltimore 10-6; the New York Yankees edged Kansas City 4-3 in 15 innings; Minnesota outslugged Boston 15-9 and Detroit walloped Cleveland 9-1. The Chicago White Sox and Washington were not scheduled.

Spahn, backed by homers by Rico Carty and Gene Oliver, led a receipt for it."

I called George Macklin in Washington and gave him the story. Then I gave the operator Martin Raymonds home phone number.

He answered on the third ring. His voice didn't sound sleepy. I was disappointed.

"Milo March," I told him. I thought you'd sleep better if you knew that you'd saved your million dollars."

"You found Rako?"

"I found him. He's now with the New York State police. And I seem to recall that something was said about a bonus."

"You'll get it, my boy. This is the best news I've had in years. The board will be delighted."

"I'm delighted that the Board will be delighted. I have to stay here a few days, at your expense of course, until after a hearing. I shot someone and they always like to ask questions."

"Not Rako, I hope," he said with alarm.

"Would I endanger your million dollars like that?" I asked.

"Good night, Martin."

I hung up and put another dime in the phone. I gave the operator another number in New York, and put in more change. When a man answered I could hear music and the rumble of voices in the background.

"Harry?" I asked.

"Yeah. Who's this?"

"Milo March. Did that canary ever show up?"

"Did she ever?" he said. "She opened tonight and she's strictly from Hittsville."

"Please, I said. 'I have a delicate stomach and you're not my type. Can I talk to her?'"

I waited and then her voice came on. "Hi," she said. She sounded excited.

"Hi, honey, I said. 'How's it going?'"

"Oh, Milo, its wonderful. Where are you?"

"Upstate. I just finished working and I thought I'd see if you were there. You didn't have any trouble leaving Cleveland?"

"No, Nick Potti suddenly left town last week and I left the after he did."

"I'm glad you're a hit, honey. I'll be in the city in two or three days and we'll celebrate."

"Hurry up, Milo," she said. (The End)

AYES AND NAYS!
By Abigail Van Buren
Dear Abby: Were you serious when you asked your readers if they considered it "cheating" to use a dictionary and other reference books while working a crossword puzzle? Of course, it's cheating! The whole idea of the crossword puzzle is to test you on how many words and definitions you KNOW. Not how many answers you can find somewhere.

PLAYS FAIR
Dear Abby: Although I have never used (or owned) an X word dictionary in my many years of combat with the puzzles, I would not consider it "cheating" to use one if necessary. After all, the word you look up today, you may remember tomorrow. I think most, if not all, puzzlers aspire to work out the solution without book reference. But if I am asked whether Panama City is in Texas or in Florida, and I must look at a map, is that cheating?

BILL AGAIN
Dear Abby: This is in answer to your question, "Is it considered cheating to use a dictionary while wrking a crossword puzzle?" No, it is most assuredly NOT. How many educated people know the two letter word for an Ugandan sixtoed bitter vetch? When the puzzle requires such a word, and I have to look it up, I do not feel as though I am cheating. I figure that the author of the crossword puzzle is cheating. How about asking the geniuses who make up these

ISABEL
Dear Abby: I would like to meet the person who can complete a crossword puzzle with out using any tools, such as a dictionary, or reference books. Crossword puzzles are comprised primarily of words that are never used in ordinary conversation, and never appear anywhere except in crossword puzzles.

Would YOU know what the six letter word for the jackal god of the necropolis was? As a clue, he is usually represented as the son of OSIRIS, who shared with THOTH the office of conductor of the dead to the judgment hall in AMENITI. The answer is ANUBIS. Why, how simple! I am sure you knew it all the time but it slipped your mind.

HUGH
Dear Abby: I fail to understand how one can "cheat" in a game where he only is playing. In working a crossword puzzle, the object is to complete it. If a puzzle is so simple that it can be completed without any research, I would consider it a waste of

Willie Smith, baseball's newest Cinderella, hasn't turned into a pumpkin after all. Smith, who stepped off the time. I use a large unabridged dictionary, a Bible, a World Atlas and a set of encyclopedias when I undertake to work a crossword puzzle, and I feel that I gain much by doing so. To do "research" increases one's knowledge, and is certainly not "cheating."

A.S.B.
Dear Abby: If it is considered "cheating" to use a dictionary while working a crossword puzzle, then it is also cheating to use a slide rule in order to solve a mathematical problem.

pitchers' mound into a slugging outfielder's role, clouded a grand slam homer in the ninth inning that boosted the Los Angeles Angels to a 10-6 triumph over the American League-leading Baltimore Orioles Thursday night.

Smith also belted a single and two doubles and drove in two other runs as the Angels broke their five-game losing streak.

The 25-year-old wizard, who didn't do much for the Angels with his pitching arm, won three consecutive games with his bat during the team's recent 11-game winning streak.

After the amazing outburst though, Smith tailed off considerably, as if midnight had struck. Before Thursday's game he had only five hits in his last 27 times at bat. Worse he managed only two hits in 16 times at bat during the Angels' losing streak. The sudden slump dropped his average from a season's high of .340 to .286.

Just as suddenly, though, Willie rediscovered his glass slipper, or bat, and shattered the Orioles.

His hit and RBI production was his biggest for one game and increased his average to .317 and his RBI total to 23—21 coming in the last 17 games.

lead to three games over the Yankees. Jack Brandt hit a pair of two-out, two-run homers, the second coming in the eighth and tying the game 6-6.

Miller, now 4-2, hadn't lost since April 28. Albie Pearson opened the Angels' ninth with a single, went to second on Miller's throwing error and took third on a walk. Smith then blasted his first major league grand slam.

Hector Lopez drilled a bases-leaded single in the 15th inning for the Yankees' victory. Mickey Mantle triggered the winning rally with a triple while two intentional walks by Dan Pfister filled the bases.

The Yankees tied the game 3-3 on Bobby Richardson's leadoff homer in the eighth. Mantle drove in New York's first two runs with a fifth-inning double. Rocky Colavito scored the Athletics' first run in their two-run second and tripled home a run in the third.

Minnesota mauled the Red Sox for the second straight day. Don Mincher led the assault, driving in five runs with a three-run homer and a single. Tony Olive had three hits, including a three-run homer in the first inn. Jim Kaat won his ninth game against three losses.

Mickey Lolich held the Indians to five hits as they lost their sixth straight game. The Tigers scored five runs in the second inning, three on a homer by Gates Brown. Cleveland scored in the second on Chico Salmon's double following a two-out error by Dick McAuliffe.

change to new Lion Octane-Blended gasoline
5 grades - 5 prices
...blended exactly to fit your car

Most brands of gasolines give you only two grades—premium or regular. Many car owners waste money buying premium, with octane power their cars can't possibly use. Many others risk costly repairs by using regular in engines which demand gasoline with higher octane power.

This doesn't have to happen to you. Now you can buy exactly the right gasoline for your car—and save money in the bargain!

Change now to new Lion Octane-Blended Gasoline, blended in the pump, in five different octane ratings... at five different prices. The lower the octane rating that fits your car, the more you save... 1¢, 2¢, even 3¢ a gallon!

Ask your nearby Lion Dealer to show you the chart that tells how much you can save. Change to new Lion Octane-Blended Gasoline, and keep the change!

1776 'till NOW...

Independence Day, the Fourth, the Glorious Fourth of July, that Great Day in the history of our Great Country—the birthday of our freedom! It's time to celebrate! It's time to rededicate yourself to God and Country!

In 1776, July 4 was a day of jubilee, full of joy. A people rejoiced with all its heart because its Declaration of Independence had been adopted. Long had they struggled under the oppression of tyranny, awaiting the fullness of time that would bring leaders to guide their way to freedom. They had been plucky, they had been patient, but now their hour had struck. At last their claims to "certain unalienable Rights... Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness" ... were no longer intangible dreams, but a living challenge across the sea "to a candid world." These patriots knew the struggle would be hard, that it would mean personal sacrifice for each and every one ... it was a preposterous assignment; it was a fearful task. Did they hang back and haggle as to the prudence of such daring? Did they talk of doubt and fear and mistrust of their leaders? They weren't made of such stuff. They were proud of their commitment. Like their leaders, they were ready, "with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence," to pledge their Lives, their Fortunes, and their sacred Honor to support their Declaration of Independence. Their Spirit sanctioned every word. Their bells rang out in a grand "AMEN!"

This year July 4 likely will be sayer than ever. We will picnic, we will swim, we will go places. There'll be fireworks, parades, band playing, speech-making. Again it will be a Great Day of celebration. But there'll be an undercurrent of solemnity; there'll be a reverent re-dedication to our country. We know that our nation stands today in grave peril; we are warned at every hand of the powerful tyranny which rides today unchecked, growing more threatening and more powerful hour by hour, day by day ... Russia and her fifth column. We realize that the fate of our freedom is in our own hands. We must not be unconcerned. We must recognize the dangers. We must be ready to sacrifice. Like our forefathers, we must value our democratic freedom more than life itself ... As we have done for nearly 200 years. Never have the people of America failed to rally in support of the principles set forth in our Declaration of Independence. We never will! Communism cannot take root in the Land of the Free. We have no desire for territory. We have no ambition for conquest and military glory. We want no loot. But we mean to have our freedom and independence, whatever the cost. In 1776, our forefathers made a bold Declaration against Despotism. Today, we stand ready to uphold that Declaration against any powers that be. The Spirit of '76 still lives. The right to freedom of worship must Prevail.

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

Williams Newspaper Features
P. O. Box 231, Ft. Worth, Tex.

THE CHURCHES OF THIS COMMUNITY ARE THE ONLY INSTITUTIONS WHICH HAVE AS THEIR MAIN FUNCTION, THE TRANSFORMING OF HUMAN LIVES. THEY ARE THE SIGN BOARDS POINTING THE WAY TO GOD.

Sponsors of these messages urge faithful church support. Through these pages the appeal is for all men to stand up and be counted ... to combat Communism on all fronts ... to be faithful to God.

OUR PASTORS ARE GOD'S SERVANTS WHO CALL THE SIGNALS AGAINST THE ORGANIZED FORCES OF EVIL. THEY INVITE YOU TO ENLIST ON THE SIDE FOR GOD ...
